

Parent Orientation Programme- When the Home and School work together

"At the end of the day, the most overwhelming key to a child's success, is the positive involvement of parents." Jane D Hull

Parent orientations are critical events that bridge the gap between home and school, providing parents with essential information about their child's educational journey, school policies, and fostering a collaborative partnership between parents and educators. APS Kamaraj Road has always been the pathfinder, when it comes to fostering positive connections between school and home.

At APS Kamaraj Road, we believe that the communication is the key. We keep our parents informed not only about their ward's performance in academics but also about plethora of opportunities provided for their holistic development.

The outreach programme held under, the able guidance of Principal Mrs Kavitha K began with a warm welcome for the parents. The parents were then informed of the massive changes in the education format under NEP 2.0. A walk-through of the curriculum, both scholastic and co-scholastic aspects, expectations, leave policies, rules and regulations of the school and an overall description of the school system was provided. The parents were briefed about the importance of discipline, etiquette and grooming and how they contributed strongly to the overall development of a student.

Parent orientation sessions were conducted for the parents of the Pre-Primary and Primary levels. The orientation programme was a resounding success with mass attendance. This strengthened our belief that the school is on the right path sharing comprehensive information, addressing concerns, and fostering open communication channels. The efforts will contribute to creating a supportive and nurturing environment conducive to student success.
